TWO MEN WOUNDED By the Tumbling of a Wall-One Has Both Legs Broken. Yester by forenoon two of the colored laborers employed in the work of demolishing the old building on the northwest corner of Gayoso and Main streets were seriously injured by the premature falling seriously injured by the premature falling of a partition wail. From the statement of those who were present it appears that the foreman ordered the base boards to be removed from a heavy wooden partition resting upon the floor of the second story. He was warned that the removal of the boards would almost certainly cause the vall to fall instantly but insided that wall to fall instantly, but insisted that it should be done. The wall immediately swayed and a warning cry enabled two or ained, managed to reach the ground with ssistance, and was afterward taken home. One of his ankles was dislocated. The other, Shed Perrills, a carpenter, had one g broken at the knee and the other abou midway between the knee and ankle, both being compound fractures. The bones protruded through the flesh, making a s ckening and ghastly sight. He was low-ered to the ground with ropes, and his wounds dressed by Drs. Green and Albans, who think he will recover. He was re-moved to his home on Alabama street, South Memphis, and the best of attention will be paid to him and his family during the weary months he must necessarily be oufficed to his hed. THE BOY DIES. One of the Victims of the Stationhouse Disaster Bend. The boy Geo. Lauderdale, one of the title darkies upon whom the wall at the tionhouse fell a day or two since, died nday morning at the City Hospital. His wounds were of such a nature that it was mpossible for him to recover, though he was given the best possible attention by Or. Black. A jury of inquest was sumnoned by Justice Spelman in the after-noon. The witnesses were S. B. Lecy, the proprietor of the stable, and Capt. Hack-ett, of the police force. Both made state-ments solely in regard to the wall, which they declared had not been condemned. There was no testimony whatever in re-gard to the manner of the boy's death.

The jary accordingly rendered a verdict exonerating the Taxing-Listrict authori-ties from blame. The following is a rebatim copy:
We, the jury, find that George Lauderdale came to his death from peritonitis, caused by injuries received in the fall of a wall. It is the opinion of this jury that here was no evidence of any weakness in he portion of the wall that iell, and that here is no evidence of any criminal careessness on the part of the authorities in in his love for Memphis, and especially for his "Elmwood," which he has so ably managed for more than a quarter of a century. "I made his acquaintance by chance, and found him to be a Southern gentleman of the old school, Joseph Lanow, of Memphis, Tenn., whose principal business, so he told me, is that of president of Elmwood Cemetery at that place. This position he has held for more than twenty-five years, and during parts of that time it has been anything but a sinecure.

They kept us busy in the great fever epitime it has been anything but a sinecure. They kept us busy in the great fever epidemics, especially in 1878, said Mr. Lenow to me. 'It is a miracle that anybody escaped alive. Why, Memphis at that time was the nastiest city in America. Her people didn't know it, yet there was the pestilence-breeding fifth right under all our noses. The last of the fever was in December, 1879. Since then we have revolutionized the city, paved it with atone, drained it in every direction. Our people understand thoroughly that cleanliness, by
